

24-HOUR CONFIDENTIAL COUNSELLING HELPLINE

One in four of us will experience a mental health problem in any given year¹, but many still feel isolated, ashamed and unable to open up on their experience. It's inevitable that as individuals we will experience increased levels of stress in our lives and that naturally will affect our well-being.

We have put in place a confidential counselling helpline that is available 24-hours a day, 365 days a year, that you can call for free on 0800 108 8585.

This service is available to yourself and your immediate family members (that live with you permanently), along with any children who are full-time students living away from home.

The service has been set up to encourage you to open up to talk about any issues that are causing you anxiety or concern, such as relationships, health issues, grief, or just about anything else.

Your reasoning for contacting isn't important, it's your well-being that is.
